Editorial

As International Finance is thrown into chaos, the Red Serpent raises its evil head again!

Global Capitalism is in crisis, the situations we are told about are probably only part of the whole picture as Western and asian governments struggle to prop up the crumbling edifice of monopoly capitalism and the old ogre of international finance.

Inevitably the chaos in the global markets and world capitalism has struck a chord with the die-hards of the political extreme-Left. Those radical Marxist-Leninists, Trotskyites, Moaists, Moscow-line Communists and assorted Anarchists, have suddenly re-emerged from under the rocks they have been hiding since the collapse of the Soviet Union and its Eastern European Communist empire.

Suddenly the Communists, socialists and so-called Progressive politicals have re-found their voice. The crisis in capitalism is surely the decline that was foretold by Karl Marx himself; did not Marx and Engles write that capitalism bore the seeds of its own destruction?

The Left are suddenly everywhere declaring this to be the beginning of their Second Coming. In newspaper columns, magazine articles and radio phone-ins, they are claiming that Marx was right all along, that the collapse of the Comintern and the USSR was just a temporary blip and soon, when capitalism has been swept away, the socialist worker's paradise can be realised.

Well, we have news for the Communists; there is no way on Earth that you are going to resurrect your international Marxist-Bolschevist evil again.

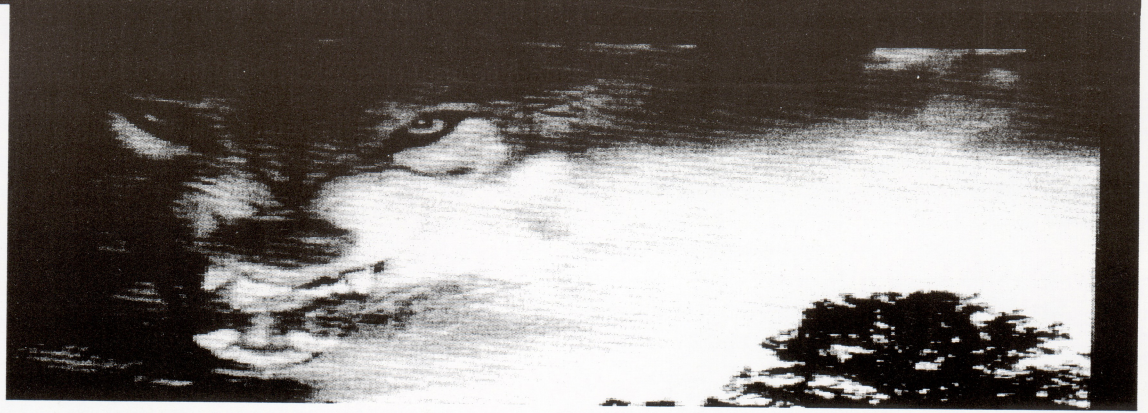

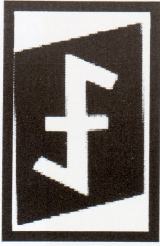

National Socialism is the way forward.

There will be a New Order built on the ruins of global capitalism and international finance, but it will be an order built on Blood and Soil, Race and Nation and Folk and Family.

The collapse of the post-1945 world order is drawing closer and the time of our Struggle is ever near !

WHITE RESISTANCE AGAINST MULTI-RACIALISM IS GROWING. BRITISH MOVEMENT WILL TAP INTO INTO THIS GROWING RESERVOIR OF DEFIANCE

The old saying, Where There Is A Will, There Is A Way sums up the attitude of British Movement towards defeating the twin evils of multi-culturalism and multi-racialism in Britain today. Even though our ideological enemies appear to hold the whip hand, even though the liberals and the ideological Left control the media, the legislative system, local and national government and the judicial system, there is grassroots resistance against them. Throughout the White British population as a whole there is a sizeable percentage of people, ordinary citizens, who reject multi-culturalism and political correctness either partly or totally, creating a mindset that a determined and organised National Socialist movement can build on to overturn the ruling ideological system.

A changing economic and social climate is exactly the right kind of environment for a targeted National Socialist campaign to change peoples attitudes and to generate support for radical ideas and hardcore solutions to Britain's problems. In times of hardship and growing unemployment, ordinary working-class people are less likely to accept appeals for equality and the celebration of diversity, those partly opposed to political correctness and liberal ideas can be completely swung to support National Socialist solutions and ideas. At a grass roots level ordinary White British people can be motivated to turn against the left-wing agenda being imposed by national and local government and the forced acceptance of a multi-racial society can be resisted. The greater the oppression and suppression of White racial resistance, the greater will be the resentment of the British people towards the politicians and opinion-shapers who try to force-feed their progressive politics down the throats of the average White British citizen.

Multi-cultural Britain was forced on the British and artificially maintained by the imposition of draconian Race Relations and Community cohesion legislation. Millions of pounds of tax-payers money is used to fund the Race Relations industry and the salaries of professional Equality officials.

When times get hard, it is difficult for Establishment politicians to justify the allocation of those millions away from pensions, Housing and the Health and Social services into translation services, refugee and immigrant support services, Community cohesion and ethnic minority services.

At all levels of British society we must constantly remind the average uncommitted British citizen that their taxes are being used to prop up all those services that do not serve the wants and needs of White British people. Remind them that, IF THOSE PEOPLE WERE NOT SETTLED HERE THAT MONEY COULD BE BETTER SPENT ON WHAT YOU NEED!

When times get hard, people look inward and are less accepting of those who are different. We must build on that element of resistance. Even in the British prison system there are signs that multi-culturalism is breaking down.

A recently released report by the Prisons Inspector Anne Owers highlights the growing racial tensions behind bars.

Owers report focussed on conditions in Frankland prison near Durham, where the level of violence directed against non-white and especially Muslim inmates by White prisoners has led to segregation of convicted Muslim terrorist prisoners from the general prison population. Owers reported a number of serious incidents between White and ethnic minority prisoners including racially motivated fights. Two Muslim terrorist prisoners were moved out of Frankland after being attacked, there were claims that Frankland was, an extremely dangerous environment for ethnic minority prisoners.

This report reflects conditions in just one specific prison, but also reflects the tensions growing in other prisons and in general society outside. The British people are becoming disgruntled and resistant to a multi-racial society and will increasingly turn on those who support and seek to impose greater levels of diversity and multi-culturalism.

British Movement will exploit that resentment as we begin the fight back. The ordinary White British people can be shaken out of their apathy and will identify with our slogan.

We Will Have Our Country Back!

MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS

Broadsword looks at the stories and incidents drawn from across the media in Britain that best illustrate the depths into which our country has sunk as the Government, the media, the police and the Race Relations industry conspire against the indigenous British people to impose a multi-cultural society on Britain. How British culture, values and traditions are undermined by political correctness, minority interests and racial equality. Stories which reveal the harsh reality of life in a multi-cultural Britain and the betrayal of the White British majority population.

Anti-Terror Cash Goes to West Midlands Mosques Birmingham Council to Spend £3 Million on Fighting Muslim Extremism.

Last year Birmingham City Council spent £525,000 on the closely guarded and controversial government scheme - PREVENTING VIOLENT EXTREMISM PATHFINDER FUND (PVE)

Over the next three years it will spend a further £2.4 million to fund special projects based at ten mosques across the city.

The decisions where to allocate the funding and spending is taken by Dr. Mashuq Ally, Birmingham City Council's Head of Equality and Diversity department. Amongst the mosques receiving special project funding are Birmingham Central Mosque, the Hazrat Sultan Bahu Trust and the controversial Green Lane Mosque in Balsall Green.

West Midlands Police spend £100,000 to develop 'protective suit' to fit over Sikh officer's turban

A Police project has been criticised for spending £100,000 to develop a special protective suit that would fit over a Sikh officer's beard and turban. The problems arose when a junior Sikh officer applied to join the West Midlands Police counter-terrorist support unit but found he could not wear standard issue protective helmets and anti-chemical suits because of his beard and turban. So instead of refusing him admission to the specialist support unit, West Midlands Police spent 18 months and £100,000 of tax-payers' money to develop a suit for the individual Sikh officer.

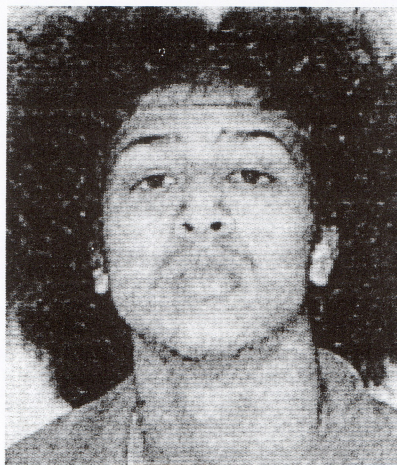

A spokesman for West Midlands Police tried to justify the wasted £100,000 on providing the suit for just one Sikh officer, 'West Midlands Police is a diverse organisation which both serves and recruits from a diverse community. No Sikh officer has applied and been turned down from joining the operational support unit because of faith issues.'

The Ferrier Boys were a multi-racial street gang who roamed the streets of Kidbrooke and Eltham in South-East London attacking and robbing passers-by. A classic example of youths from many different nationalities and cultures thrown together in a society they did not identify with. Their token white gang member Neil Williamson was the typical white boy surrounded by alien cultures and only able to survive by adopting the values of those living around him.

In July 2008, the gang showed their contempt for British society as they stood in the dock at the Old Bailey and laughed and sniggered as six members of the gang were imprisoned for a violent street robbery including the brutal stabbing of the brother of a man the gang had just beaten and robbed. Judge Giles Forrester QC jailed the six gang members to a total of 46 years.

ABU QATADA - ANOTHER MODEL CITIZEN

In 1993 Abu Qatada entered the UK as an illegal immigrant and asylum seeker, using a forged passport. He immediately applied for political asylum and was granted it a year later. Abu Qatada was no ordinary asylum-seeker, he was an active supporter of Al Qaida, and was later described as Osama bin Laden's right-hand man in Europe.

A Palestinian-Jordanian, Abu Qatada was wanted for terrorist offences in Jordan and in December 2001, went into hiding in the UK to avoid arrest and possible deportation. He was captured the following year, living in a council house in South London. Released on bail in 2005, he fought extradition to Jordan and in April 2006 had his deportation order quashed by the Court of Appeal on the grounds that he was likely to face torture in Jordan, which would infringe his human rights. In June 2008 Abu Qatada was released from prison on a 22 hour curfew order, on the advice of three High Court judges and returned to live in West London with his family of five. Interestingly the British tax-payer has not only been supporting Qatada's many legal cases through legal aid but also his wife and children with a full complement of social security benefits all the time he has been in prison.

TAX-PAYERS PICK UP HOSPITAL BILL FOR ASYLUM SEEKER WHO HAS 'SUPER STRAIN' TB

A hospital in Leeds has put a Somali Asylum seeker in to an isolation ward because he has been diagnosed with an extreme form of tuberculosis (TB).

The man in his 30s is the first person in Britain to be diagnosed with the drug-resistant, so-called super strain TB - officially classed as tuberculosis (XDR TB).

The World Health Organisation has classed XDR TB as a world-wide threat. XDR TB is resistant to treatment with antibiotics and is therefore extremely dangerous.

The Somali asylum seeker who arrived in the UK in 2007, is being treated on the NHS and therefore his medical treatment is being picked up by the local Health Authority and is likely to cost tens of thousands of pounds because of the extreme nature of his illness.

TEACHING OF BLACK HISTORY ON NATIONAL CURRICULUM TO BE COMPULSORY

The Qualification and Curriculum Authority (QCA) has announced that the teaching of Black History is now compulsory in British schools.

Pupils from 11 to 14 years will be taught about the slave trade and the role of the British Empire in the slave trade, to help them understand modern-day issues such as immigration.

The two new elements of history teaching will join the study of the two world wars and the Holocaust, which must form part of every school's history syllabus.

All British school children will now be taught Black History including the study of the lives of figures such as Martin Luther King, the black American Civil Rights leader; Marcus Garvey, the Jamaican black nationalist and founder of the Black Star back to Africa movement; plus lesser known black historical personalities such as Olaudah Equiano and Harriet Tubman.

Educationalists believe that the compulsory study of Black History will help to generate cultural pride in black and ethnic minority students and also help to influence white students into being more accepting of ethnic minority populations and generate understanding between different racial and cultural groups, to counter racism and celebrate diversity.

The teaching of traditional areas of British history, such as the Norman Conquest, kings and queens, Tudors, Stuarts and the Civil War has now scrapped.

The picture above, on the steps of Rome's city hall, was flashed around the world by a shocked liberal, dominated newsmedia as evidence that Il Duce was about to return to lead Italian politics. The truth is that after many decades of so-called democratic politics and Left-wing control, the Nationalist fringe of Italian politics has triumphed. The election of Gianni Alemanno as Mayor of Rome has broken the mould of the Italian electoral establishment. The election as mayor of the former youth leader of the MSI is a step in the right direction.

GERMANY

The German Government continues to harass the German racial- Nationalist movement. In July a series of Police raids on a Nationalist youthcamp in northern Germany. The raids near Rostock rounded up 39 children and teenagers taking part in a summer adventure camp.

The excuse given for the raids was that the camp was being run by a Neo-nazi organisation and that police seized racist propaganda material and towels decorated with the swastika during a search of tents on the camp site.

As this issue of Broadsword magazine goes to print, the Labour Government of Gordon Brown and his fellow Champagne socialists continues to struggle with the rising costs of fuel, flounders to make policies that deal with the credit crunch and the prospect of economic downturn. As long as the British economy is tied into the web of international finance and international banks, there will never be stability. The British public have been seduced into incredible levels of personal debt by banks, building societies and credit card companies.

Mass consumerism and materialism have replaced ideology, national pride and spirituality in the minds of the British. Something has to change! There must be a revolution in thought. National Socialism is the way forward, breaking the chains of materialism and media led fashions and consumerism.

HOSPITAL S POLITICALLY CORRECT POLICIES AND

21 Year old Darren Harkin was a patient at the Hayes hospital near Bristol, not only did he have an autistic spectrum disorder but was also schizophrenic. He was originally detained in a secure unit when he was just 12 years old after he had stabbed his baby step brother to death. At the time he admitted killing the child after watching horror films, but he escaped murder charges because of his mental state and was convicted of manslaughter on grounds of diminished responsibility. Despite absconding from psychiatric units three times, staff allowed Harkin to collect DVD films both horror and pornography. Political correctness and Human Rights gave him the right to personal choice in watching these films. In February 2008, Harkin escaped again, burgled a house for money, clothes and cash before walking eight miles to Chepstow, where he dragged a 14 year old girl off the streets at knife point into a secluded area and raped her twice. Harkin has now been detained in Broadmoor high security hospital.

JULY 2008 - STOKE on TRENT - BRITISH PARENTS FIGHT BACK AS NON-MUSLIM SCHOOL CHILDREN PUNISHED FOR REFUSING TO PRAY TO ALLAH

In a case of political correctness gone mad, the drive to force cultural diversity and cross-culture understanding in secondary school in Stoke on Trent went another step towards enforced observation of alien creeds.

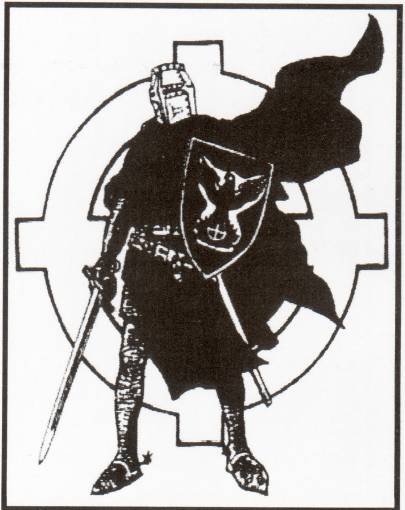

Two school boys in a class of 11 to 12 year olds were punished for refusing to take part in a demonstration of how to worship Allah. In what was supposed to be a Religious Education (RE) lesson, the teacher, Miss Alison Philips, showed the class a short film on Islam, then produced prayer mats from a cupboard and instructed the pupils to put on Islamic head dresses before saying We are now going out to pray to Allah. Two boys refused and were given detention, the rest of the class were punished by missing their break, because some pupils were not doing it right and were being punished for being disrespectful to Islam.

Parents of the schoolchildren were quick to react, the teacher Alson Philips, was forced to stay away from the school until the anger died down. Cheshire County Council was swift to play down the situation and announced an investigation into the complaints. One furious WhiteBritish parent told the press, It seems to be happening throughout society. People think they can ride roughshod over our beliefs and the way we live. A question frequently asked at British Movement meetings is, What can I do as a parent when the school forces my children into studying topics and religious practices that I object to?

The case above shows just how far some fanatical multi-culturalists amongst the teaching profession will go to brainwash young British children into accepting non-white and non-European belief systems. The only course of action open to National Socialist and racial nationalist parents is to make a formal complaint to the head teacher and to write letters of objection to the local education authority about the inclusion of these teaching methods and subjects, better still organise a petition to the local councillors responsible for education and schools in your area, councils are forced to acknowledge petitions. If there are enough objections the school will be forced to back track.

A CHANGE OF MAYOR BUT NOTHING CHANGES

The Elections in May 2008 for Mayor of London saw the exit of the Left-wing Red Ken Livingstone and his replacement by Conservative old Etonian Boris Johnson.

There have been a few token gestures by the allegedly right-wing Mayor Johnson, such as promising to cut the budget for the assorted racial equality/race relations departments that flourished under Livingstone and the cancelling of official subscriptions to various Marxist and minority interest magazines by the Mayor's office.

Interestingly the previous administration had a standing daily order for 40 copies of the Communist newspaper The Morning Star - now cancelled.

Mayor Johnson made a big play of how many black advisors he had taken on to the mayoral payroll, only to back-track rapidly when an earlier than expected series of financial scandal stories surfaced around two of the most favoured BME advisors.

But other than the above, it would appear that it will be business as usual for all the entrenched interest groups at the expense of the average London tax-payers and continued misery for White Londoners at the hands of the ever increasing Ethnic Minority and illegal immigrant population of most London boroughs.

Hunted Down By A Street-Gang That "Hunted in a Pack"

14 Year Old White Schoolboy Stabbed To Death In North London

Murder Victim
Martin Dinnegan

His death was caught on CCTV as the 14 year old schoolboy ran along a street after being stabbed calling out to onlookers

Please help me .
Then Joseph Chin caught up with him and stabbed him to death.

Killer Joseph Chin was a teenager with a history of violent crime and in August 2008 was jailed for life for the killing of 14 year old Martin Dinnegan.

The Old Bailey jury heard how Chin was part of a gang of black youths who stabbed his victim four times in an attack in broad daylight on a street in Holloway, north London in June 2007.

At the time of the murder Chin was already under the supervision of the Islington Youth Offending team

Jailed for Life
Teenage killers Kevron Williams, 17 and Joseph Chin 16.
Williams chased Martin Dinnegan on foot, caught him punched him to the ground and stabbed him with a screwdriver. Chin arrived on a BMX bike and stabbed the injured boy, Martin to death.

because of his established criminal behaviour.

Kevron Williams who took part in the same attack was sentenced to four years for grievous bodily harm.

Martin Dinnegan was chased by a gang and hunted down because he and friends had exchanged dirty looks with the gang of black youths at a bus stop.

This supposed lack of respect cost Martin Dinnegan his life.

A QUESTION OF ATTITUDE

How Much Respect Do The Ethnic Minorities In The UK Have For British Culture, British Customs, British Traditions and British Values?

The above photograph has been much used by a number of British Nationalist publications to illustrate the hostility shown towards White British people by militant Islamic immigrants settled in the UK and the unacceptable face of multi-cultural Britain.

But Broadsword believes that this snap-shot of Muslim women on a British street reveals a great deal more than mere hostility to the photographer and the White British in general but exposes a harsh reality that future generations of White British people will have to face unless the British people wake up and support the radical policies and solutions to race and citizenship that British Movement advocates.

A QUESTION OF ATTITUDE

The mainstream politicians and their media henchmen try to excuse the above image of immigrant disrespect by claiming that the women in the photograph were simply reacting to a strange man, not of their culture, photographing them in the street. They accuse the photographer of being hostile in his approach, of not being culturally sensitive in taking an uninvited photograph of obviously devout Muslim women, we were understandably upset by such an intrusion into their privacy. The photographer showed no respect for the women's culture or traditions and had made an unwanted invasion into the customs of their community.

This outlook is typical of the soft liberal attitude that constantly seeks to excuse the ill-behaviour and ignorance of the non-British minorities. The Establishment attitude is always that the White British population must change and make way for alien customs, traditions and values, British customs must change to suit the incomers, the immigrants must never change their ways to meet the values and morals of the British majority.

It is easy for the systems media to trot out some middle-class, university educated Asian or African to present the acceptable integrated face of non-white Britain, the so called BME community, (Black Minority Ethnic), no one is allowed to describe them as immigrants unless they are literally just stepping off the boat.

But the reality on the streets is very different, the black and brown media talking heads are not the faces that confront the White minorities living in non-white dominated neighbourhoods.

The reality is the attitude of the Asian women in the photograph; the attitude shown towards White British people when they are surrounded by hundreds if not thousands of non-white families and individuals. The colonised neighbourhoods where English is not spoken as a first language or the language of choice. Where shop fronts and window displays reflect an entirely un-British customer base and British tastes and fashions are not catered for.

Neighbourhoods where Asian, African or African Caribbean youths effectively control the streets and dictate who comes and goes after dark. Where traditional pubs are forced to close through lack of customers, only to be bought out and converted into mosques, maddrassas or curry houses to reflect the surrounding majority population. Where Somali tribal loyalties, or Kosovan and Kurdish clan politics count for more than the British electoral system. The communities where Sharia law and African religious practices count for more than the British legal system and the police dare not interfere.

Community Cohesion Multi-Faith and Multi-Culturalism Protecting and Celebrating Diversity

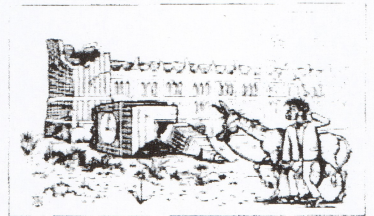

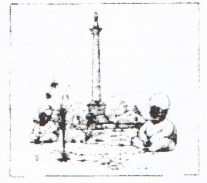

These are the current buzz words being promoted by the Establishment politicians as they push through legislation aimed at protecting their great multi-racial experiment, force feeding the British population a diet of multi-culturalism and enforced acceptance of non-white communities in all our towns and cities.

British Movement says -This situation cannot continue. We want change - Stop Immigration - Start Repatriation. WE WILL HAVE OUR COUNTRY BACK !

ANNOUNCEMENT LONDON HAS FALLEN

Britain's capital city is now almost completely occupied by alien hordes of Asiatic and Negroid origin. Whole areas have been taken over and an entire street corner, there is evidence of the overwhelming numbers of the invaders.

These forces of occupation have colonised Britain and are now able to vote. Those Britons who haven't fled are unrecognised as citizens. The major political parties are collaborating with the invaders and, inevitably, an Act has been passed in Parliament that makes it a criminal offence for Britons to oppose the colonisers or effect the transfer of Government to the rightful people.

COLIN JORDAN, BRITISH MOVEMENT CANDIDATE, 1974

WITH THE 40th ANNIVERSARY of the British Movement, it is time to look back at the many campaigns, attacks and people who have come and go through its ranks. It is an organisation built on a solid racial nationalist ideology that refuses to surrender and refuses to strike its colours, the Sunwheel banner flutters before us.

Above: 1974 - A British Movement election leaflet for Colin Jordan's Wolverhampton campaign. The leaflet briefly but accurately predicts the growing chaos that a multi-racial society will have on Britain's streets.

BRITISH MOVEMENT: - The British National Socialist Movement Founded by Colin Jordan in 1968 and still holding the torch of radical National Socialism in Britain's political arena. Since 1968 BM has fought many campaigns, has withstood many attacks and has seen many people come and go through its ranks, but it is an organisation built on a solid racial nationalist ideology that refuses to surrender and refuses to strike its colours, the Sunwheel banner flutters before us.

Led by Colin Jordan until 1975; taken into the 1980 s by Mike McLaughlin, and directed since 1984, by the combined talents of the 1984 Committee, British Movement celebrates its struggle, its continued existence and survival over forty turbulent years. No matter our enemies have said about us, have written about us, or have done to us, British Movement remains steadfast.

The great idea will never die and our struggle will never end until we have built our New Order.

Ghetto culture revisited knives - Guns - Gangs - Urban culture. Following on from the article in Broadsword issue 34. Broadsword continues the argument that urban culture and its influence on the youth of the UK is an alien import that Britain can do without!

A RECENT SURVEY STATED, THE LESS THAN SURPRISING INFORMATION THAT 55% OF GUN AND KNIFE CRIME IN THE UK WAS CONCENTRATED IN LONDON BIRMINGHAM AND MANCHESTER.

This information is less than surprising to a White Nationalist observer because these three metropolitan areas also happen to have the greatest concentrations of non-white, non-British communities in the UK.

Unfortunately the size and influence of these communities is growing and the black focussed Urban Culture which is rooted in the colonised inner city areas is being widely promoted by a liberal media as the future direction of British culture.

Although the so-called Black Minority Ethnic (BME) communities are still the minority population in Britain, the promotion of their music, fashions and dress styles, jewellery, graffiti-art, festivals, carnivals and foods is eclipsing the culture and entertainments of the White majority population.

The increasing profile of black musicians, sportsmen and women, actors and film stars as positive role models not just for BME youths and consumers but as the desired image for White youngsters.

Black music and fashion styles, especially those associated with black club culture R & B, Hip-Hop, Garage, and Soul are heavily interwoven into any youth targetted entertainments. TV, radio, video and the pop music industry is instrumental in pushing American black ghetto culture into the everyday experience of White British youngsters.

Black celebrities are portrayed as being ideal sexual partners for young White girls and there is an young White men.

So powerful is the media generated promotion of black Urban culture in the UK that large sections of youth in Britain's Asian communities are taking up African-American styles of dress, music and attitudes in preference to the youth cultures of their own racial communities. This even runs to the extent of Asian youths adopting the street language rap and broken English patois of their black neighbours.

Needless to say, the ghetto gang structures and violence of the black neighbourhoods is also being woven into the Asian districts, together with the attendant drugs and street crime. Asian youth gangs are even adopting the names and dress codes of notorious black American ghetto gangs, such as Bloods and Crips. As the year of 2008 turns into its second half, the national news media records yet more teenage knife and gun crime victims, mostly in the Greater London area, but with others dotted across the multi-racial inner city areas of post-industrial Britain. This is the face of Britain's future, the unwellcome face of multi-culturalism and the rejection of traditional British values and culture.

The greater the domination of our national life and society by imported, alien ideas and customs the further into the abyss our future generations will slide. Only a National Socialist led renaissance of Aryan British culture and customs can save our youth from degenerating into racial oblivion.

STABBED: Shakilus Townsend

Taken from the front page of the SOUTH LONDON PRESS - July 8th 2008.

A typical story about a gang related murder 16 year old Shakilus Townsend, from New Cross was stabbed and battered to death on a street in Thornton Heath in the middle of the afternoon.

As is so often the case the victim here is non-white and his attackers are non-white. This is what mass immigration and a multi-cultural society has created; a self-generating street based sub-culture. The roots of which are not British or even European, but are an imported fusion of US Ghetto (urban/garage) culture,

African township violence, the Yardie guns and drugs of Jamaica and the hood gang mentality of black hip-hop and rap videos.

THE COMING OF THE NORTHMEN

PART 1

The Coming of the Northmen.

This part of the Our Ancestors series will examine the arrival in Britain of the Vikings. This part of our history will cover the extended period of their settlement in Britain, and the lasting influence of the northern peoples on British culture, language and the ethnic makeup of the British Isles.

The Northmen can be roughly split into two groups; the Norse, largely but not exclusively from what is now modern

Norway and those referred to by the Anglo-Saxon chroniclers as the Danes, mostly from what is now modern Denmark, including Schleswig-Holstein and the area of the Netherlands called Friesland. The terms Norse, Northmen, Vikings and the Danes are generally used interchangeably by early historians, without any consideration of the subtle differences in language, dialect, custom and culture that these peoples brought to Britain and Ireland from their particular parts of the Viking world. The collective name the Vikings is used to cover all the variations of the Northmen in this series and makes the telling of their story so much easier. There is no doubt that their influence on the history of Britain is as great as that of the Anglo-Saxons and just as important in terms of understanding both the makeup of the British people and our collective kinship with the other White Tribes of Europe and Ireland. Generally the accepted starting point for Coming of the Northmen to Britain is the entry in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicles in 789 AD.

Often quoted, this extract does help to convey the shock felt by the Anglo-Saxons as a new, powerful and non-Christian force shook their established order.

In his days came the first three ships of the Northmen from Horthaland. The reeve rode there, and meant to force them to the king's dwelling, because he did not know what they were; and then he was killed. Those were the first ships of Danish men to seek out the land of the English.

Other histories quote the Chronicle entry for 793 AD, when heathen men destroyed God's church at Lindisfarne which is often seen as early Christian propaganda designed to rally the Anglo-Saxon believers against the threat of heathen invasion.

At this time the incursions by the Northern peoples were restricted to shore raids and pirate-style attacks on religious settlements at Lindisfarne, Jarrow and elsewhere to seize booty and slaves. For the Norsemen, these sea-faring raids were the true meaning of the term Viking, but the word came to be used by later generations as a catch-all name for the peoples of Scandinavia and northern Europe at this time.

It was not until some thirty years later that serious attacks began in earnest, around 835 AD when shore raids gave way to organised invasions. Instead of hurried raids for loot, the conquest and settlement of territory became the pattern of attack. In the year 851 AD, the situation became even more serious when a fleet of 350 Viking ships entered the Thames estuary and launched a major incursion into Kent, leaving the important Christian shrine city of Canterbury in ruins.

The series of wars in south-east and southern England between the Danes and the Anglo-Saxon kings now dominated British history.

(See Broadword issue 34 for the history of Alfred the Great)

In 865 AD a great heathen force landed in East Anglia, Thetford was taken with great violence and the pattern was set for the conquest of eastern and northern England. Many Anglo-Saxon kings fell in battle trying to stop the advance of the Danes. Important Anglo-Saxon centres fell like dominoes; York, Nottingham, Repton, Peterborough, and Reading. The so-called Great Army scattered all the Anglo-Saxon forces before it, using Repton and Reading as bases for new campaigns into the south, south-west and north-east of England.

The great Danish chieftains Ragnar Lothbrok, his sons Ivar the Boneless and Halfdan; also Anwend, Guthrum and Oscetel, carved their names into legendary status in the scribbled accounts of the Anglo-Saxon chroniclers.

OUR ANCESTORS - THE COMING OF THE NORTHMEN

The Lindisfarne Stone

A piece of Anglo-Saxon propaganda the carved stone depicts Viking warriors with swords and battle-axes raised above their heads. The stone represents the Viking attack on the monastery at Lindisfarne in 793 AD. The attack was recorded in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicles as the first important Viking raid on mainland England.

While the Danes were rampaging across southern, eastern and northern England, the Norse invaded and settled across Northern Britain and into Ireland. Taking over the Shetland Islands, the Orkneys, the north and north-west coastal areas of Scotland, down into south-west Scotland and north-west England. In the following years there were large scale Norse settlements in Northern and Southern Ireland, most importantly the founding of the city of Dublin. In the meantime the Danish armies fought a series of campaigns against Arthur the Great of Wessex, ending in the stalemate defeat of Guthrum and his Great Army. In spite of this reversal and Guthrum's conversion to Christianity in 878 AD, the treaty between Arthur and Guthrum, the so-called Peace of Wedmore, created the Danelaw and effectively handed over eastern and northern England permanently to the Northmen. The Danelaw drew a line from the Wash to the Severn, whereby everything north of the line was subject to Danish law and kingship, creating the origins of the North/South Divide in England and changing forever the dialects, customs and culture of northern and eastern England.

The Peace of Wedmore did not last long and every year saw battles and campaigns across central and southern England as the Anglo-Saxon kings struggled to either defend their territories or re-conquer the lost lands to the north. As the 9th Century gave way to the 10th Century, there were tensions within the Danelaw as the Norse-Irish began to flex their collective muscles from both their strongholds in Ireland and the north-west of England. In the year 919 AD, the powerful Norse-Irish dynasty based in Dublin, the Clan Ivar, changed the political balance of the Danelaw by seizing control of York (Jorvik) and creating a dual kingdom and trading empire based on the trading ports of Dublin and York. The Norse-Irish were militarily and economically strong, suspicious of the unified Anglo-Saxon kingdoms of southern England and busy forging alliances with the North Welsh kings and the Celtic kings and chieftains in Cumbria, Strathclyde and central and eastern Scotland. This balance was upset when the new Anglo-Saxon king Athelstan launched his invasion of the North. (see Broadsword issue 34). The Viking world was shocked as York fell to Athelstan and for the first time ever an Anglo-Saxon king ruled York, as the northern Anglo-Saxon chroniclers noted, 'We were never subject to any of the kings of the South Angles before Athelstan.

Athelstan's campaign of conquest in 934 AD generated tremendous resentment and the Norse kings and their Celtic allies were determined to avenge the great losses they had suffered. The Norse-Irish were sworn to regain York and their strength was eagerly sought out by Constantine, king of the Scots. Keen to bring the powerful Viking chieftains their ships and armies into his alliance of Welsh and Celtic Britons, Constantine's scribes boasted, 'There will be reconciliation between the Cymry and the men of Dublin, the Irish of Ireland and Anglesey and Scotland. the men of Cornwall and of Strathclyde will be made welcome among us....

The men of the north in the place of honour ... the stewards of Cirencester will shed bitter tears..as an end to their taxes they will know death.

The stewards of Cirencester were the Anglo-Saxons of Wessex and the list of tribes and kingdoms raised against them is a rollcall of the ethnic makeup of the British Isles at this time; the Norse and the Danes collectively named as, the Men of the North.

The great attack began in the late summer of 937 AD, Anlaf Guthfrithson, king of the Norse-Irish sent his ships into northern England, sailing down the Humber to retake York and Northumbria, using York as a base to rally support from the Danish settlements in northern and eastern England. Athelstan raised the Anglo-Saxons in response and marched his West Saxon and Mercian levies northward, the outcome in September 937 was one of the bloodiest and costliest battles to be fought on British soil. The actual site of the great battle of Brunanburgh is not known, but Athelstan's great victory had a massive impact on the future political and ethnic composition of England, Ireland and Celtic Britain. Amidst the dead of the great slaughter at Brunanburgh were five kings, including the Norse king of the Western Isles and two sons of the Norse-Irish king Sihtric.

In spite of these great losses, the North-men were now a permanent presence in Britain and in the course of the next 100 years would continue to mould and shape the development of British customs, language, politics and culture.

BLOOD & SOIL

Racism must become the food of everyone and for everyone, if we really want to establish in Italy a racial conscience, alive in each individual.
Our racism must be that of the blood, the blood that runs in my veins; the blood that I can analyse and compare with the blood of others.

Our racism must be the racism of the flesh and of the muscles and the racism of our spirit, without forgetting that the spirit resides in specific bodies, which reside in specific countries. I am not talking of a spirit wandering in the uncertain shadows of different traditions of a non-existent and false universalism. Otherwise we would end up by lending support to peoples of a mixed race and of Jews; of Jews who just as they have been able to change their names to hide among us, will easily be able, without even bothering to engage in difficult and expensive practices, to feign a change in their spirit and present themselves as more Italian than us; or pretend to be such and succeed in presenting themselves as such.

There is only one solid proof that can put an end to peoples of mixed race and Jewishness, that is the proof of the blood.

RACE:

As National Socialists race is the foundation upon which our society must be based.

Consider this: the first breakdown of births by ethnic origins born in England and Wales was recorded in 2005. Fewer than two-thirds of all newborns registered were classed as White British.

The figures from the Office for National Statistics gave only 64.4% of the 649,371 2005 births as White British.

The other figures show 9% classed as Asian, 3.5% were classed as black, 3.5% were mixed race and 2.4% as other racial group eg oriental.

In addition another 10% of births went as ethnic origins unrecorded.

If this pattern continues then the future for our nation looks bleak indeed; the White British birthrate has been previously shown to be dropping and the birth rate amongst the non-white population is increasing.

Given that a percentage of the White British population continues to emigrate every year and the number of non-white, non-Europeans entering Britain continues without any sign of reduction, then the ethnic makeup of the British population is heading towards disaster for the indigenous White British.

Many sources already class London as the most racially and culturally diverse capital city in the world.

This should serve as a warning for Britain's future, because London sets the pattern that eventually every other city in the country will follow.

A Bus Ride In Liverpool

I had an unreal experience on my way home from work last week, bear in mind that I am 51 years old and proud to be a member of British Movement - this story unfolds as such;

On my work jacket I proudly wear my 14 Words shield badge, and I was sitting on the bus when a white race mixing slut and her chimp-like child got on the bus and sat in front of me. I noticed that I was getting odd looks from the pair, when she suddenly got up and boldly strode to the front of the bus and engaged in a conversation with the driver. She then returned to her seat and made a remark in my direction which I chose to ignore.

At the next bus stop the driver stopped the bus and came up to me accompanied by a ticket inspector, the driver informed me in full view of all the other passengers that the bus was not moving unless I removed my 14 Words badge.

The driver was told in a no nonsense manner that the badge was not being removed.

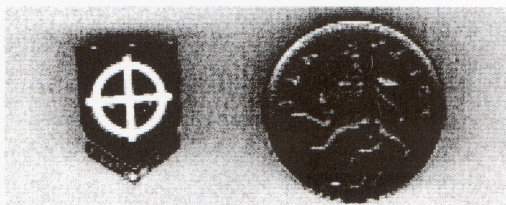

The race mixing slut now informed the rest of the bus that I was wearing a racist emblem and her chimp felt intimidated. Numerous arguments ensued between myself, the driver, the bus inspector and the slut.

After about ten minutes the rest of the passengers were getting upset by the delay and to my astonishment, two police officers boarded the bus. The driver spoke to the policemen and then to me. To my surprise the police officers said that they could not see anything wrong with my badge, but in order to get the bus moving and back on schedule I would be asked to alight the bus. I was escorted off the bus and the bus continued without me. On speaking to the two police officers they explained that as the person making the complaint had an ethnic minority with her, the only outcome was that I, a White working-class National Socialist, would be obliged to give way!

By this time I was seething with anger, but decided to wait for my next bus. At present I am waiting for a reply from the bus company involved.

Yours in the BNSM cause. - Liverpool.

The Badge Which Caused the Problem in the Above Article.

The tiny "14 Words" badge shown alongside a 10 pence coin to show size. The asprin sized Celtic Cross emblem must have been recognised by the complainer. The slogan "14 Words" is minute - no doubt a hawk-eyed race mixer.

Following the recent death of Russian writer and author Alexander Solzhenitzsyn

A few thoughts on the crimes of Communism. By H.M. (Scotland)

A few years ago, the London based Jewish Socialist magazine, published an article by a female contributor which said that she wanted Communism to be like it was in the days of Stalin. Reading this sentiment I was astonished at the ignorance of the terrible reality of Communism displayed by the writer. If she did indeed know the truth, then here was an evil woman.

In volume 2 of his Gulag trilogy, Alexander Solzhenitzsyn said that some 66,000,000 people were slaughtered in the Soviet Union in Stalin's time alone (1925 - 1953). The writer Kurganov said that separate research was needed to establish the death toll for the days of Lenin and Trotsky; but it certainly ran into millions. Daily Express writer Freddy Forsythe wrote that some 6 million died in the time of Lenin and Trotsky. Forsythe has a reputation for accuracy, so added to Stalin's total, we can see that the evil Reds slaughtered about 72,000,000 people in the USSR between 1918 and 1953. This is the system that the Jewish Socialist wants to see set up on Earth!

Joachim Hoffman in his book

Stalin's War of Extermination, tells us that the civil powers in Eastern Europe and Western Russia have so far uncovered over 100,000 pits of dead bodies, the victims all shot in the back of the head by the Soviet NKVD execution squads. Many were confessing Christians, either Russian Orthodox, Roman Catholic or minority protestants. Others were captured Polish officers, murdered at Katyn forest, German and Axis prisoners of war, or German civilians killed in 1945.

Significantly for the Jewish Socialist writer, the late Menachim Begin, former Israeli Prime Minister and ex-leader of the Zionist terrorist group the Irgun once commented that Communism was alright when it was led by Jews. I understand that the publication The Jewish Socialist has now gone out of print, but I doubt that anyone will miss its demise as it peddled ignorance, hate and class conflict. Something that a certain Searchlight magazine appears to do today. Lots of gullible folk pour cash into its coffers in the belief that it espouses progressive politics. Its editor, Gerry Gable now lives in the Essex stockbroker belt and owns two cars - a socialist living the dolce vita what?

RADICAL OPINIONS

REFLECTIONS ON JOURNALISM AND UGANDAN ASIANS

I approved of Broadsword's criticism of the Independent newspaper's hysterical reporting of the Uprising Against Fascism (End Notes - Bsword No.34). It seems as if the Independent is trying to take the place of the Guardian as Britain's premier white-guilt, anti-racism peddling broadsheet.

I've written lots of letters to them in criticism of the Independent's anti-British, anti-white political line, not one published, surprise, surprise! It is an indication of the poisonous effect of liberalism and left-wing politics that most of the journalists who write this stuff are White themselves. One Independent journalist who is not, is Yasmin Alibhai-Brown, who called us, White working-class, lairy slob. She is a Ugandan Asian who vaunts her middle-class status in Britain. From her writings, she manifestly does not like us Brits, especially working-class men. Yet she still votes with her feet in favour of our great White British culture, which she seems to consider superior to the culture that exists in the land of her origins.

Yasmin's A-B's forebears left India to take jobs in West Africa, when Britain had an Empire. Years later, in the 1970s when the Asians in Uganda began to exhibit arrogant attitudes towards the indigenous natives, President Idi Amin threw them all out. Did they return to the land of their origins? Not them! They flooded into Britain and are now starting to display the same arrogance towards us Brits as they did towards the Ugandans. If this continues perhaps WE will be provoked into doing what Idi Amin did and kick them out.

FRIEDHELM BUSSE

July 23rd 2008.

Broadsword was saddened to learn of the death of the German National Socialist activist Friedhelm Busse.

Former member of the Hitler Youth and veteran of the Waffen-SS Hitler Jugend Division.

Friedhelm Busse had been an active member of German Nationalist/National Socialist organisations over many post-war decades.

His funeral at Passau was attended by many leading figures on Germany's Nationalist scene. One regrettable event at his funeral was the action of the German Police authorities who dug up Herr Busse's coffin within an hour of his burial to remove a swastika flag which had been draped over the coffin just after the box was lowered into the ground.

According to reports received, a leading German Nationalist has been arrested for placing an illegal emblem on the coffin.

TIME FOR REALISM

I believe that the next decade will prove to be a watershed in the history of our RACE and NATION.

Mass immigration and the demographic changes within the UK population, especially the high birthrate amongst the ethnic minority groups in our midst are a very serious threat to our identity, culture and heritage. Thus, my personal view is that now is the time for racial nationalists to make a major push to gain wide spread support within the White community in order to build a platform to drive towards ultimate victory.

Unfortunately racial nationalists remain divided and distracted by factional feuds and ideological differences across a variety of parties/groups. Many racial nationalists continue to be deluded by the fantasy that the ballot box is the route to power. So a lot of time and money is wasted on electioneering. It is time for them to be realistic. The latest local elections show that over 90% of those who bother to vote remain wedded to the Old Gang of establishment parties.

Opinion polls show that over 40% support the so-called Conservative Cameron - a Tony Blair style conman.

British Movement wisely maintains a policy of not taking part in the controlled democratic process. We must appeal to racial nationalists in other organisations to stop wasting their time and resources on elections and to unite with BM in building an infrastructure outside the democratic system.

National Socialism will provide the leadership for those within the White population who are disillusioned, disaffected and alienated.

The Overseas Aid Scandal

On May 26th 2008 I watched a Channel 4 Dispatches programme, the subject was the civil war in Somalia.

Currently the Government there is involved in a lengthy, bitter, bloody and increasingly difficult conflict with a group of Islamist rebels. The Somali Government is being supported by the Ethiopian army as well as billion of pounds of aid from the UK Government and the CIA.

However the Ch. 4 reporter concentrated on four members of the Somali Government with links to the UK.

They are the President; the head of the Somali intelligence services the Deputy Police Commissioner; and a Somali MP who was the Interior Minister. These four men have all been given UK passports. Three of them also have properties here in Leicester, Birmingham and Leytonstone, where their families are based. The Deputy Police Commissioner in particular boasted to Ch. 4 about the social security benefits and tax credits his family receives! The President had an organ transplant in one of the best London hospitals, via a British donor of course. He also returns here regularly for medical treatment. The others are often in Britain taking a break from their civil war.

The Ch 4 report produced strong evidence that all four were involved in torture; assorted war crimes, eg the bombing of civilians; kidnapping for large ransoms as well as a lot of foreign aid not reaching its intended destinations in refugee camps. The aid is often diverted to Somali Government officials, the army or police, stolen or sold. This is a good example of how our government wastes tax-payers money on foreign aid on a massive scale. It underlines why we must oust the Establishment politicians and their false foreign policies. We need a British Movement which puts the interests of our race and nation first. We Must Have Our Country Back.

British Movement Women's Division

FROM SUFFRAGETTES TO SHARIA

The legal status and rights of British women are enshrined in law, law that grew out of the campaigns of the Suffragette movement. Now that suffering and success is being put under threat by the incursion of an alien creed.

In 1897, Millicent Fawcett founded the National Union of Women's Suffrage. Suffrage means, the right to vote in elections and, as at that time women were not permitted to vote or indeed to hold any other responsible post, the National Union of Women's Suffrage was formed to fight for their rights.

Millicent argued that if parliament made laws that both men and women had to obey, that women should also then be made part of the process of making those laws; that they should have the same rights as men because they paid taxes and that even the most wealthy women had to watch their gardeners and other estate workers going to vote, when they themselves, no matter how wealthy, could not.

However it was in 1903 when the Women's Social and Political Union was formed that the movement became known as the Suffragettes.

In 1905 at a political meeting in Manchester, Christabel Pankhurst, daughter of Emmeline Pankhurst who founded the Suffragettes, and Annie Kenney, asked two politicians, one Winston Churchill and Sir Edward Grey, if they believed that women should have the right to vote. There was no reply from the men, and as a result, the women held up a banner which read 'Votes for Women' and shouted at the two politicians to answer. Such behaviour was unheard of at that time as people were expected to listen courteously at a public meeting, even if they didn't agree with what was being said. The women were thrown out of the meeting and arrested for causing an obstruction and assaulting a police officer. Both women went to prison for refusing to pay their fines, in an effort to highlight the injustice in the system.

Refusing to bow to the power of the law, the Suffragettes burned down churches as the Church of England was against what they wanted. They vandalised Oxford Street in London, breaking all windows and chained themselves to the railings of Buckingham Palace as the Royal Family were also against their views. Boats were hired which were sailed up the Thames and from which the women hurled abuse through loud hailers as Parliament sat. Politicians were attacked as they went to work, and their homes were firebombed. Many women refused to pay their taxes and were quite happy to go to prison, immediately commencing hunger strike. But when prison officers were ordered to force-feed the women, there was a public outcry. However the government responded with the Cat and Mouse Act. As Suffragettes were assumed to go on hunger strike as they entered prison, the Cat and Mouse Act allowed them to commence this and to become progressively weaker and weaker. When they were extremely weak, they were released from prison. If they died out of prison this was no embarrassment to the government, and thus they could not be made martyrs to their cause. Whilst they were so weak, they could not participate in any other of their struggles but as soon as they began to regain their strength the government had them re-arrested for the most trivial reason and the whole process would then begin again. This became a very effective weapon against the Suffragettes.

After Emily Wilding Davison threw herself under the King's horse Anmer at the June 1913 Derby and the Suffragettes had their first martyr, in 1914, Emmeline Pankhurst instructed the Suffragettes to cease their campaign of violence, which had included the blowing up of the part of the home of David Lloyd George, and instead to support the government in its war effort. The work done by Britain's women in the First World War was vital, and in 1918 the Representation of the People Act was passed by Parliament, and women got the vote.

That dedicated fight against the laws of the day accredited women with a responsible position in the day to day running of our country, the benefits of which are felt by women today - but not all women.

Under our present system of government, the fight of the Suffragettes would appear to have been in vain. The freedoms for which they fought are, unfortunately, being progressively disintegrated. We have only to look down the street in our local shopping centres to see the strange black ghost-like figures weaving their way in and out of the stores, totally unrecognisable and almost sinister in their appearance.

These are Muslim women clad in the burka. Our own culture portrays the grim reaper or other characters such as the highwaymen and robbers of old wearing such attire and yet should we question or raise concerns or alarm at the dress these women (or possibly men) are wearing in our streets, then we are immediately branded as racist.

It seems apparent that the memory of those courageous women, the Suffragettes, has been lost when we are subject to the forceful reintroduction of a culture whose women so live in fear of their men and of haram (shame) that they cover their whole bodies, unable to talk, eat or show any facial expressions whatsoever. They become willing non-entities. They are not permitted to eat with their husbands or any other male member of the family. They are unable to travel unaccompanied, and many are not even permitted to leave the house without the consent of a male. In their own countries, so doing can lead to arbitrary arrest and prison without trial. One quote from a woman working to increase rights for these women says 'In the Arab world, as in the wider Muslim world, the words women and rights rarely go together. A large percentage of these women are illiterate, they are married before reaching puberty and many, consequently, die in childbirth. It is considered shameful for a woman's body to be seen by any other man than her husband, and a woman would likely allow herself to bleed to death rather than unveil herself for the purpose of medical attention. Muslim nurses and Midwives also keep themselves fully covered which must be an obvious health risk and no woman is permitted to consider contraception as this is deemed a sin against God. Some workers for Muslim women's rights say 'A mosque can destroy all your work in one day and an Imam can wipe you from the surface of the earth.'

In many British towns and cities where there are large Asian, Islamic communities, there is pressure to adopt elements of Sharia law into local legislation. How long before these laws are applied to every female in that area regardless of racial origin? How long before the British legal system caves in to demands for Sharia law to run as part of our judicial system? What hope have our own women against the increasing influx of these incomers whose minds have been set within a culture like that for centuries, and yet we have to allow our own nation's women to regress into slavery. The consequences of our fight for rights? - we ourselves would be arrested but the writer would consider the term of imprisonment would be slightly longer than that of the Suffragettes!

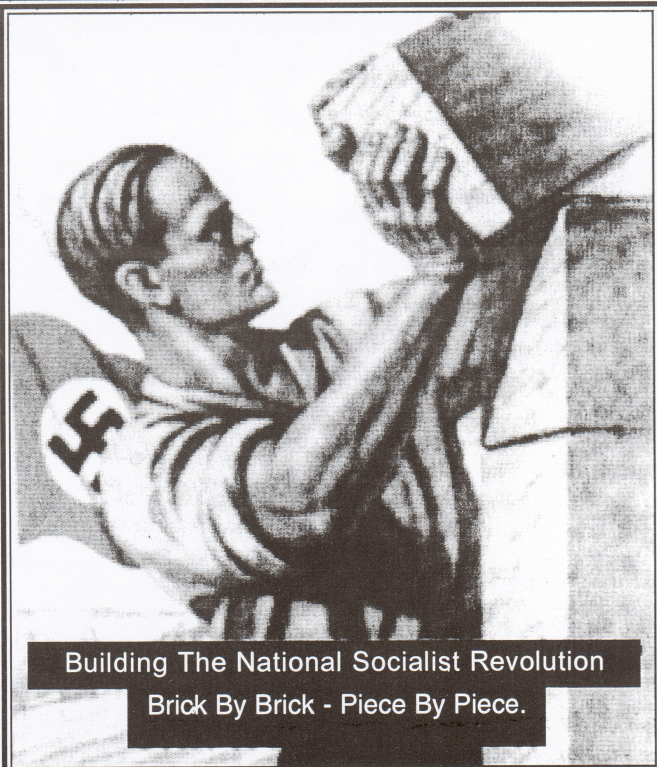

If Sharia gains ground in law, then the struggles of the Suffragettes will be overturned and women's rights under British law will return to the Middle Ages.

All in the name of Sharia Law.

BUILDING AN N.S. FUTURE

The creation of a National Socialist state in Great Britain is the ultimate goal of British Movement, and in order to achieve the creation of a National Socialist New Order in the UK, we must first create the political conditions by which this situation can be realised.

This will be a long and difficult struggle, but it can be done and for the future of our people it must be done. We must right the wrongs inflicted upon our people in the name of multi-racialism and multi-culturalism, we must regain the birth-right of our people taken from them by stealth and the lies of democractic politicians and Left-wing ideologists. So-called progressive thinkers and opinion makers who have corrupted our nation s psyche.

Building The National Socialist Revolution
Brick By Brick - Piece By Piece.

We Will Have Our Country Back!

Building A National Socialist Revolution Needs Political, Social and Economic Conditions That Forces People To Break With Their Current Thinking And Dependence On A Consumer Based Society. Those conditions are growing closer and as the New Labour Government of Gordon Brown flounders to cope with the so-called international credit-crunch and rising world fuel prices, Broadsword forecasts a time that British National Socialists can exploit.

Recent headlines in national newspapers have revealed that the British Government is already starting to panic about what the developing economic climate might bring to the UK.

The Government is well aware that the multi-cultural society it has created is propped up by an unstable social welfare state and mass consumerism. The hordes of both legal and illegal immigrants colonising Britain reply on the British economy remaining stable.

But the Government s greatest fears are spelled out in a Home Office report issued to Downing Street at the end of August 2008. LABOUR GOVERNMENT WARNS OF AN ECONOMIC DOWNTURN LEADING TO AN INCREASE IN SUPPORT FOR FAR RIGHT EXTREMISM AND RACISM

The report sees the two greatest threats to the Establishment as the Far Right and radical Islamists .

The political conditions upon which a grass roots National Socialist movement can flourish are the current government s worst nightmare. The Home Office document makes it clear, There is a risk of a downturn increasing the appeal of far right extremism and racism which presents a threat...

They fear that the majority White British population will look to radical racial nationalist solutions when times get hard and they find themselves in competition with the non-white population that continues to grow and demand an equal slice of the limited welfare state.

Islamic militancy and domestic Islamic terrorism will also panic those whites who currently sitting on the racial-political fence to look for harder solutions .

When the British population is struggling to earn a living and social and welfare are being cut back, the indigenous population will be less inclined to swallow the multi-cultural and diverse community propaganda.

This is the time to raise the Sunwheel Banner.

British Movement has shown in the past how in times of economic hardship and mass unemployment it can radicalise working-class British youth and take the National Socialist message onto the streets. The Government are well aware of the appeal of Nationalist and National Socialist politics when times get hard. We must expect dirty tricks and oppression from a so-called democratic state acting to preserve its hold on to power. They will not give up their grip on power easily - but we do not expect an easy ride, the time for Our Struggle is coming. We must rise to meet that challenge and Build an NS Future.

Dear Broadsword,

The latest issue of Broadsword (No.34) was well worth the wait. The usual high standard of content and presentation has been maintained.

The hard hitting and uncompromising stance taken by the magazine in both the editorial and the various articles makes a refreshing change from some of the other political literature which I see.

During recent months Gordon Brown, our Stalinist Prime Minister, has droned on about Britishness. However, his warped theories on this subject fixate on the benefits of diversity and inclusivity as well as the supposed joys of multi-culturalism.

Thus it is crucial that we counter this evil propaganda campaign by emphasising that the cornerstone of our Movement's philosophy and ideology is Race and National Identity. Thus we must totally reject race-mixing as well as the pollution of our culture and way of life by alien ideas and forces. In this connection the Broadsword articles entitled Blood and Biology and Building an N.S. Future are an excellent contribution. All true racial nationalists should study these articles and note the contents.

I also enjoy the balance in Broadsword, between articles on current affairs and historical items. The articles entitled Ghetto Culture and Facts and Figures are good examples of the former and

Our Ancestors illustrates the latter. The series of articles on The Anglo-Saxons would be useful as a separate pamphlet for distribution to White British children to counteract the current teaching of history in our schools, as was highlighted in the Broadsword Editorial.

Finally I was very interested to read Colin Jordan's article about Lincoln Rockwell's visit to this country in 1962, which culminated in the Cotswold Agreement. This is a useful reminder that, as British National Socialists, we cannot stand and fight alone against all the enemies that beset us in this hostile world. We need to re-ignite the spirit of the original World Union of National Socialists and forge close ties with our Aryan comrades overseas.

A SERVING SOLDIER WRITES.....

Dear Broadsword,

I hope my note finds everyone well, it's not too bad out here in Helmand province. (The place is a total shole, but being Brits we just get on and make the most of it).

I thought I would drop you a line to let you know that a few members, supporters and like minded people are out here in Helmand, doing our bit to take it to the Taliban. We have been here over a month and a half now, and we have all had it quite tight from the Taliban, attack wise. The little shs have balls of steel. They will stand and attack armoured vehicles and attack helicopters. As far as the official British stance on the opium poppy harvests, it is total sh*t, we totally ignore it, some if not all of the Afghan police stations grow their own poppy crops to harvest and sell, these crops are grown in the grounds of the Afghan police stations, they don't even hide it.

At the moment the US Marine expedition force are in the South, (Pakistan border area) carrying out a sweep north to clear (kill) and push the Taliban into killing zones. So in a few days time we can expect to be fighting the Taliban on our doorstep.

The good news is that as well as National Socialists, we have a few Odinists out here, so over the next few months we will discreetly spread our message and views, whenever the subject of conversation turns to the Taliban, Islam and Muslims in general. We will fight on behalf of National Socialism against militant Islam!

Regards

Serving Soldier

Dear Broadsword

I hope you don't mind me sending a few of my thoughts to you, but I feel I must comment on a letter from RM (Essex) in a back issue of Broadsword. The reason I am writing now is that I have been surprised at how many comments and letters I have read that advocate the same policy as our friend RM, who I presume are loyal supporters and want the right things for our race. But their idea of doing things legally are the views of far too many in our struggle, because this passiveness will never work. I firmly believe that we will at the end have to use extreme measures to achieve what we want. To attempt to win by the voting system is a waste of time, as Colin Jordan says (a man whose views we should have the utmost respect for) because as soon as we start winning with the vote, all the main political parties, the media and the whole crooked system will pull together to exclude us and destroy us.

All of us know what we think of the Provisional IRA, but they have got what they want through the power of the bullet and bombs, and now have plush offices in Parliament and our ZOG government is grovelling to these killers every wish. Even the Animal Liberation Front with their band of pathetic followers have achieved a lot of their aims by using extreme and violent methods. At least they have the media sitting up and taking notice.

I am afraid that at the moment we are no threat at all to their liberal minded system and they are treating us with indifference. Passive resistance will never work, they are trying to destroy everything we believe in, our way of life, and the life we want for our White families. Admittedly at the moment we are not strong enough, but we must take the fight to them anyway we can. As far as I am concerned, breaking any of ZOG's laws is a justified part of this fight, like it or not we are at war. Forget the ballot box for that will be our downfall.

Agree with me or not comrades, but this traitorous government is assuming that everyone of US is a potential terrorist. So we must do what we are able to do and be on our guard at all times.

Honour & Loyalty. KM Wales.

THE NOKMIM THE JEWISH AVENGERS - A STORY OF THE HOLOCAUST YOU WON'T HAVE HEARD.

The studying of the Holocaust by British schoolchildren is a compulsory part of their history lessons. But how many are taught about the Nokmim ?

Immediately after Germany's surrender in May 1945, groups of Jewish ex-partisans teamed up with released concentration camp inmates and Jewish Allied soldiers to take revenge on German Prisoners Of War, former Nazi officials and ordinary German civilians. Former SS-men were hunted down and murdered, the deaths often staged to look like suicides or accidents. The so-called Nokmim, the Avengers, were comprised of members of the British Army's Jewish Brigade, drawn from Zionist volunteers from Palestine, South Africa, the UK and the Empire. In April 1946, the Nokmim attempted the mass murder of captured SS soldiers at a camp near Nuremberg. A Nokmim infiltrated the camp kitchens and used Arsenic to poison 3,000 loaves of bread which were fed to the camp's prisoners. Many prisoners were taken ill and several hundred died.

Their biggest operation involved the mass, indiscriminate killing of German civilians in a plan to poison the water supplies of five German cities in 1946/47.

Munich, Berlin, Weimar, Hamburg and Nuremberg were the targets. Only the intervention of the new Israeli leadership prevented this mass murder.

they feared such a massive slaughter would fatally undermine the moral claim Zionism was making after the Holocaust.

The murderous activities of the Nokmim took place across all continents and were all carefully concealed often with the assistance of local Zionists. A story that today remains secret.

TONY BLAIR'S FAREWELL TOUR COST THE BRITISH TAX-PAYER £750,000

Former Prime Minister Tony Blair's nine overseas political visits between April and June 2007 cost the British tax-payer more than £750,000.

Added to the overseas trips were 18 trips around Britain at an average cost of £1,500 per trip. All part of Blair's so-called farewell tour when he stepped down as Prime Minister. In addition to the travel costs the tax-payer also shelled out a cool half a million pounds in payoffs to Tony Blair's aides, who were not retained by Gordon Brown when he took office.

THE COST OF NEW LABOUR'S BUREAUCRATS

The Labour Government retains a fleet of 87 chauffeur-driven cars to ferry around Government Ministers, ministerial aides and senior civil servants at a cost to the tax-payer of £6 million per year.

In typical Stalinist style, Prime Minister Gordon Brown has surrounded himself with a cohort of unelected, highly paid advisers.

Where control-freak Tony Blair had 68 ministerial aides, Gordon Brown has increased the number to 73; where Tony Blair had 18 special advisers, Gordon Brown has increased the number to 24.

All at the tax-payers expense.

WE WILL HAVE OUR COUNTRY BACK!

It's Not A Racial Thing

September 3rd 2008 - Columbia Road in the East End of London.

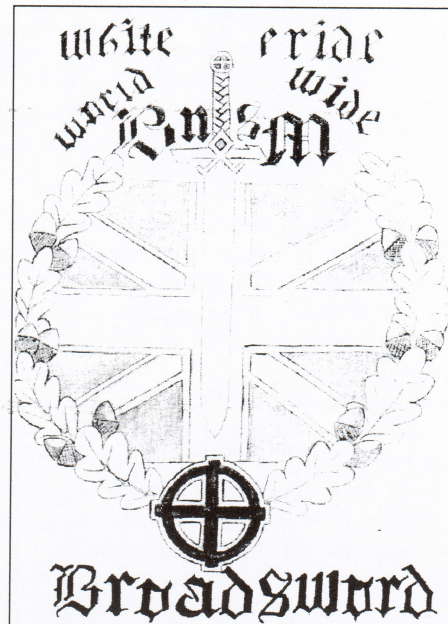

Black and Asian youths fought a running battle in mid-afternoon. Armed with metal poles, screwdrivers, sticks and a spade the fighting ran through the streets for 20 minutes.

September 8th - 2008

Bow Common Lane, Mile End, East End of London. Five people were arrested and a number taken to hospital with serious stab wounds as gangs of Black and Asian youths fought in the streets.

Predictably a local source told a reporter that the fighting was not racially motivated!

Quote: Nobody likes each other.
It's not a racial thing !
